

Increasing Chances of Winter Weather This Weekend

Confidence still low regarding timing, exact locations, or amounts

Areas most Impacted

More Details: www.weather.gov/raleigh

Important Details

- A strong storm system will move across the southeast U.S. this weekend, bringing a chance for wintry precipitation to parts of central NC.
- Timing: Significant timing differences still exist in the forecast models, therefore impacts are possible late Saturday through Monday, with higher confidence of winter activity on Sunday.
- Significant uncertainty still exists on the exact storm track and precipitation type, so it is too early to predict specific amounts.
- Remember to use a reliable source for weather information including the NWS and local broadcast media.

Now is the time to put a plan together to prepare for this potential winter storm.

Reference our Winter Safety website for tips on how to prepare: weather.gov/wrn/winter_safety

\NWSRaleigh

www.fb.com/NWSRaleigh

@NWSRaleigh

Issued: 12/5/2018 3:45 PM